Welcome to Dubrovnik

Dubrovnik is located in the extreme south of Croatia and is the oldest city on the Adriatic Sea. Dubrovnik is one of the most prominent tourist resorts of the Mediterranean and among the 10 best medieval walled cities in the world.

Most cruise ships dock at the Port of Dubrovnik (Port Gruz). Cruise ships that are anchored off the coast will tender Guests directly into the Old Harbour, located right in the heart of the old city. The official language is Croatian; however, English is spoken fluently. The local currency is the Kuna. Some local restaurants and merchants accept Euros; however the U.S. dollar is typically not accepted in Dubrovnik.

The prosperity of the city of Dubrovnik has long been based on maritime trade. In the Middle Ages, as the Republic of Ragusa, also known as a Maritime Republic (together with Amalfi, Pisa, Genoa, Venice and other Italian cities), it became the only eastern Adriatic city-state to rival Venice. Supported by its wealth and skilled diplomacy, the city achieved a high level of development, particularly during the 15th and 16th centuries. The beginning of tourism in Dubrovnik is often associated with the construction of the late 19th-century luxury hotels in Croatia, such as Grand Hotel (1890) in Opatija and the Hotel Inperial (1897) in Dubrovnik.
