Welcome to St. Johns, Antigua

In 1684 Sir Christopher Codrington came to Antigua to find out if the island would support a large-scale sugar cultivation. Over the next fifty years sugar cultivation on Antigua was very successful. The island developed more than 150 cane-processing windmills, today almost 100 of these stone towers remain. They serve as houses, bars, restaurants and shops. At Betty's hope, visitors can see a fully-restored sugar mill.

Antigua is approximately 14 miles long and 11 miles wide, encompassing 108 square miles. Its highest point is Boggy Peak (1,319 ft.), located in the southwestern corner of the island. Barbuda, a flat coral island with an area of only 68 square miles, lies approximately 39 miles due north. The nation also includes the tiny (0.6 square mile) uninhabited island of Redonda, now a nature preserve.

The earliest European contact was made by Christopher Columbus, who sighted the island and named it after Santa Maria la Antigua. In 1784, Admiral Horatio Nelson arrived and established Antigua as Great Britain's most important Caribbean base.
