

DOCTOR STRANGE

Character Description: DOCTOR STRANGE is a former neurosurgeon who sought mystical healing when modern science couldn't repair his hands following a car crash. His study of the Mystic Arts gave him a selfless determination and sense of purpose. STRANGE learned quickly and is now a Master of the Mystic Arts and guardian of the New York Sanctum, where he protects Earth from other-worldly threats. No matter the challenger, DOCTOR STRANGE faces them with confident resolve and a fierce dedication to defend all of reality.

Traits: Confident, Genius, Worldly, Stoic

Stance & Movements: DOCTOR STRANGE stands with confidence. His posture is strong, with his shoulders back and his feet shoulder-width apart or slightly staggered. His arms may be at his sides with slightly bent elbows and relaxed fingers, or he may fold his hands together low in front.

If STRANGE wants to emphasize a point, he gestures in a controlled movement as he speaks.

When STRANGE is casting a spell, the movement is dynamic and fluid. He may drop his chin slightly as he focuses his energy, and his weight shifts forward or back as his knees bend and he takes a wider stance.

Facial Expressions: STRANGE's confident, focused nature is reflected in his facial expressions. He may smirk when pleased, or show surprise with a raised eyebrow. When he is casting a spell, STRANGE concentrates intently on his task. His eyebrows may come together, and his mouth will be slightly open or closed with little to no smile.

Walking: DOCTOR STRANGE walks with a calm, composed stride. His posture is tall and his chin is lifted as he moves, swinging his arms naturally by his sides with his hands open and relaxed.

Voice: DOCTOR STRANGE's voice has a medium to low pitch. He speaks at a moderate pace and occasionally has a gravelly quality to his voice. His speech is matter-of-fact.
